Chicago, June 2016 – There's been much discussion about the patient room of the future. Primarily to reduce the vast number of people who pick up life threatening infections unrelated to the reason they arrived at the hospital in the first place. Kwalu has been a leader in the infection prevention fight for years.

Environmental surface contamination is a factor in cross transmission of Healthcare Associated Infections (HAIs). Cleanability is the key to combatting these pathogens. Kwalu is non-porous; surfaces are smooth with minimal seams; finish is guaranteed for 10 years and withstands the toughest cleaning, including bleach. Kwalu and Clorox Healthcare® target the reduction of healthcare associated pathogens by combining Clorox Healthcare's® portfolio of disinfectants with Kwalu's non-porous furnishings geared for a wide variety of healthcare settings.
