Liong Mah Design Exhibiting at SHOT Show 2020!

Renowned knife designer Liong Mah to showcase current and new exciting folding knives and tools at the SHOT Show level-Booth 830

Palm Bay, FL, (November 15, 2019) – After exhibiting for the first time at SHOT Show last year at the Next Pavillion, Liong Mah will be displaying his new line on Level 1-Booth 830. He will be expanding his lineup for 2020. Using different steels like Crucible S90v, Crucible S30v, Bohler Ulderholm M390 and Elmax. Liong feels that his customers want to try different high end steels on his knives. 2020 will bring out many new models and exciting materials to the Liong Mah Design's line. Also, If you've ever had the pleasure of speaking to Liong at any event, you'll know he will bring a great deal of energy, knowledge and excitement to SHOT Show 2020 at the Sands Expo Center in Las Vegas, January 21nd to 24th.

Several new Liong Mah Design folding knives and tools will be introduced at the show, including some new collaborations. Using USA made steel-sourced from Texas, Liong's knives and tools are made by skilled craftsmen who share the same passion as Liong's - to produce heirloom quality products.

“It's my honor to be able to support this show and exhibit as an exhibitor for a second year. I can't wait to see old faces as well as make new friendships and partnerships. It will be especially gratifying to introduce some great new products. I've been working hard on for 2020 and have some great conversations” says Liong.

Be sure to come up to the level 1-Booth 830 where there are so many manufacturers and suppliers exhibiting at SHOT Show.

About Liong Mah:

Liong Mah's background is as a pastry chef based in New York where he used knives as his daily tools of his trade so he became very accustomed to getting the best out of his knives. After having learned CAD, for sixteen years now he has been bringing his ideas to life and been lucky to work with many of the top knife designers and makers in the industry. At a young age when other kids were doodling cartoons in their notebooks, Liong drew knife designs as he has always was aware of his passion for knives as early as he can remember. With useful sensibility incorporated into his designs along with traditional styles using modern materials, Liong's gears are always turning forward to the next best thing. Never stopping at good enough, Liong always asks himself why that was done that way and especially if something could be done a better way. Each knife and tool is a result of an obsession with fine engineering, craftsmanship and a commitment to perfection. Liong Mah Design is committed to a performance and a reputation reflecting the very best that one can achieve. For more on Liong Mah Design go to: <https://www.liongmah.com/>
